

BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH

THE PALMERSTON NORTH MEDICAL RESEARCH COUNCIL

The Palmerston North Region, with its Public Hospital, Massey University and Fitzherbert Science Centres, has a significant number of scientists in biomedical research

The Foundation has been set up to support biomedical research in the region, particularly at the large research institutions.

The Foundation promotes and facilitates:

- research that helps discover conditions conducive to health
- the causes of bodily and mental disorders
- preventative or therapeutic strategies
- the prevention or treatment of disease

It also facilitates the spread of biomedical scientific knowledge and research findings.

To maintain its level of support and to encourage new researchers, the Foundation is largely dependent on legacy and bequests.

We invite applications for Grants from interested parties. Applications are accepted in August of each year.
